Animalism

ANIMALISM (PHILOSOPHY)

In philosophy, animalism is a theory about personal identity according to which personal identity is a biological property of human beings, just as it is for other animals. Animalism is not a theory about personhood, that is, a theory about what it means to be a person. An animalist could hold that robots or angels were persons without that contradicting his animalism.

According to the German philosopher W. Sombart, "Animalism", in opposition to "Hominism", contains every ideology that gives up the notion of humans possessing a life-form of their own, and understands them as a part of nature, as an animal species.

Meskipun dengan standard glyph masih bisa digunakan sebagai text, namun Candlescript tidak direkomendasikan untuk digunakan sebagai text, dikarenakan dalam scala yang relatif kecil readibility Candlescript tidak sempurna.
